

Committee can certify Morreale, members say

BY D.C. HARVILL

Faced with Bay St. Louis' first Republican mayoral candidate, the party's municipal executive committee is confused about who its members are and its role in the candidate's certification.

The question over the validity of Bay St. Louis' Republican committee arose when real estate manager Martin Morreale qualified to run as the party's candidate for mayor.

According to Mississippi's statutes regulating elections, a candidate must be certified by the executive committee of the party he is representing.

"There has always been a Republican committee in Bay St. Louis. There have been many Republicans who ran for office in Bay St. Louis, but the committee was there long before we ever had a candidate," said State Republican Executive Committee Chairman Evelyn McPhail of Diamondhead.

In the early eighties, Bay St. Louis architect Fred Wagner, running as a Republican, was elected to the city council.

"Three of us formed a Republican Party back in the early 60's. We placed the proper advertisements in the newspaper and filed with the state,"

said Wilson Webre, first chairman of the committee.

"We haven't been too active lately because we haven't had any candidates running, but we are meeting tomorrow," committee member Al Summy said Wednesday.

Dr. A.K. Martinolich Jr., Al Summy and Nell Frisbie currently are serving on the municipal committee. They were uncertain about who the other committee members were, but agreed that new members recently had been appointed.

Legally, a committee is supposed to have a member for each MORREALE—Page 2A

Attendance law enforced despite lack of help, funds

BY DENA BISNETTE

The drop-out and truancy problem continues in Hancock County and School Attendance Officer Frank McNeil has to deal with it using the resources he has.

McNeil said the county has been approved for an additional attendance officer through authorization contained in the Education Reform Act of 1982, and could qualify for a second one.

The authorization and approval exists, but the problem is money.

State Representative J.P. Compretta said a bill designed to provide that funding died in conference.

Appropriations bills are divided between the House and the State Senate, and during the recently ended session the house was given the responsibility of appropriating funds for additional attendance officers in several locations in the state.

"We sorely needed it..." said Compretta, who does not serve on the committee handling this particular bill. "It would have been well worth it, but we don't have our priorities straight on several things."

Compretta said he would have liked the opportunity to deal with the appropriations bill because, as an attorney who works closely with the Hancock County Youth Court, he feels more of the need for additional attendance officers.

The legislature has been called back for a special session next week, but in a special session the governor specifies what topics lawmakers can cover. In this case, the senators and representatives will look at the possibilities of establishing a full-time parole board.

There is the possibility the governor will add a bonding bill for capital improvements at universities and state agencies, but not the attendance officer appropriations.

Compretta or State Senator Gene Taylor, who also represents most of Hancock County, could bring up the appropriation again next year.

Until then, McNeil must wait and do the best he can.

He gives examples of the caseload with which he must cope: the local public schools have between 5,900 and 6,000 students and in a seven-day period last month, McNeil had 87 referrals from schools regarding students with chronic absentee problems.

They intensify, he said, during warmer weather and as the school year grows closer to an end, partially because students who are failing anyway feel they have nothing more to lose by skipping school.

In February, for which his statistics are complete, he had GRADUATION—Page 2A

BMR seeks killer of Waveland gator

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources is investigating the poaching death of a 14-foot alligator found with its tail hacked off in Waveland Monday.

BMR was notified about the animal by Waveland police.

The alligator, found near a pond at the end of Longo Street, had been hooked in the mouth and shot in the left eye, according to BMR spokesman Ron Grove.

"It is illegal to kill an alligator in Mississippi unless you are a duly licensed alligator trapper," Grove said.

Working in conjunction with the Department of Conservation, the seven licensed alligator trappers in the state are authorized only to remove 'nuisance alligators' from the three coastal counties.

A nuisance alligator is one which occurs in a residential area and is considered a threat to human life, Mississippi Department of Conservation biologist Jim Lite said recently when interviewed about the alligator removal program.

There are few residences near the pond adjacent to the Bay St. Louis sewerage oxidation lagoon.

Residents of the neighborhood expressed outrage at the killing and report they have never had problems with the alligators in the pond, one of which they have named Charlie.

In the late sixties, the American alligator (Alligator mississippiensis) was on the verge of extinction and granted protection from hunting and poaching.

While the big lizard's numbers are stable and growing over much of its range, because their hides are similar to other species that are endangered, they are still protected by law.

The penalty for killing an alligator is a fine up to $1,000 and a jail sentence up to one year.

An alligator the size of the one found Monday would be at least 20 years old, likely much

Bay-Waveland schools may add graduation credits

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District is studying the possibility of changing its requirements for graduation.

Bay High Principal Roger James presented some ideas on the subject to the school board Monday night.

Students currently need 18 credits to graduate. When schedules were reorganized several years ago, study hall was discontinued and a six-period day was implemented, allowing students to take the 18 credits in three years rather than four.

Schools begin counting courses for credit in ninth grade.

The credits presently include a number of required subjects such as English and American history, with some elective subjects available.

James said the possibilities for the three new credits include an additional math course, a world history course and a computer course.

"We feel all our students should have some experience on keyboard," the principal said, citing the increased use of computers in various businesses and industries.

The other courses were selected, at least in part, because the recent versions of the American College Test, which is required for entrance

Spring fever

Attendance officer McNeil has a cure for school-age youth

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The recent balmy weather brought crowds of "spring breakers" to the beaches...one glorious week to remember how good it feels to be out of school.

Hancock County Attendance Officer Frank McNeil is busy making sure that students in our school system remember that spring break is over—and school is definitely back in session.

"Absences are always more prevalent at this time of year. Students who have missed excessively begin to try to convince their parents to let them sit out for the rest of the year, making a solemn promise that they will return the following year and finish," McNeil said.

He warns parents not to be fooled, citing statistics on 15-year-olds and older teenagers which prove that the chances of these students becoming permanent dropouts are extremely great.

"Parents should stand firm and insist the year be completed unless absences were due to medical problems or other legi-mate causes," he said. "Teaching your children to understand obligation and commitment are not easy tasks."

McNeil relies on the cooperation of the schools, parents and, as a last resort, the Youth Court to assist in his responsibility for keeping school age children in class.

Six petitions filed in Youth Court this year under the Children in Need of Supervision (CHINS) provision have resulted in 10 children returning to school. Violation of the court order is a delinquent act on the part of the parents, and they are held in contempt of court.

In cases where parents have difficulty controlling their children, the courts will provide help through counseling, probation and, in some instances, placement of the child with other agencies that provide a 24-hour controlled environment or structured discipline.

Camille film available for public use

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Civil Defense Department has VHS tapes of Hurricane Camille available for residents.

Robert Boudin, CD director said, "The film depicts the severe damage received by Hancock County and the Mississippi Gulf Coast during Hurricane Camille in August 1969."

"The CD department purchased the film from the Weather Service and we have made copies so residents can play the film on their television sets using VHS VCRs," Boudin added.

There is no charge for the use of the film, only a deposit of $20 in cash or check is required, and this will be refunded when the film is returned, Boudin said.

Boudin said, "We realize there are many new residents to our area, as well as those who were too young to remember the severe destruction of Camille in Hancock County."

The entire film for Camille and the tornados is one hour long.

The Bay-Waveland, Hancock County Civil Defense office is open Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is located in the back section of the courthouse in Bay St. Louis.

political office being filled in the election.

"Since I am the only Republican candidate seeking office in this election, only three committee members are required to certify me," Morreale said.

Since the Republican Party has not had more than one candidate running for a position in Bay St. Louis, it has not had to conduct a primary, McPhail said.

During the certification process, the committee is supposed to check a candidate's background to determine whether he is qualified, is not a convicted felon and is of good moral character.

Martinolich, Summy and Frisbie all said they will know more after a Republican committee meeting today.

"I don't think they are going to penalize Martin just because we haven't kept up with the minutes. We probably will certify him at the meeting tomorrow," Martinolich said Wednesday afternoon.

"We are trying to open the doors to people who believe the way we do. We want good candidates who feel there is a chance to win running as Republicans, where they wouldn't have had a chance before," McPhail said about the rash of politicians switching to the Republican Party.

"The Democrats have become left of the middle of the road and most Mississippians are not. I think the Dukakis campaign served to galvanize the move to the Republican Party," she said.

into Mississippi colleges and universities, has included an increasing number of questions on those topics.

The test not only affects a students' ability to enter college, but a high enough score can qualify him for scholarship money.

Assistant Superintendent Robert Magee pointed out that the proposed requirements will not apply to co-op students who have jobs for part of the day or to vocational-technical students, stating that college-bound students already have more stringent requirements regarding credit imposed on them through the colleges.

The board took no action on the matter, but informally instructed James to continue the study.

an average caseload of 70. He made contact with the parents or students in 44 cases and resolved 24. Two cases are still open, and the rest he couldn't locate due to spring break.

In court, he filed five petitions and had five of the children involved adjudicated as neglected or in need of supervision.

Plans for an alternative school in the district are progressing, with a meeting at 10 a.m., April 26, set to elected officers and a board.

Funding efforts for the program, which became the focus of a committee of educators and concerned citizens more than a year ago, are also beginning to show some hope, McNeil said.

In addition, McNeil will soon begin working with Minact, Inc., a new program funded through Job Partnership Training Act with Gulf Coast Business Services in Gulfport as administrator.

Under that program, offenders who come through the juvenile courts can be ordered to attend school as part of their sentence.

ON PATROL

FATAL WRECK

A 23-year-old man has been killed in a one-vehicle accident near the Hancock County line.

Jeffrey Ladner, who lived on Carty Ladner Road in Harrison County just across the line, died Sunday morning when his vehicle ran off the road and hit a dirt embankment.

Harrison County authorities said Ladner was driving his 1981 Pontiac north on Edwin Ladner Road about a half-mile from the Kiln-Delisle Road intersection.

Harrison County Coroner Ed Little said the vehicle went into a ditch about five feet deep before hitting the embankment at about 4:35 a.m.

Little pronounced Ladner dead at the scene.

WOMAN ASSAULTED, ROBBED

Bay St. Louis authorities are still seeking the man who assaulted an elderly woman in her own home, then robbed her.

Officer Richard Hannah of the Bay St. Louis Police Department said the woman, 73, suffered severe bruises on her upper torso, arms and head in the incident, which apparently occurred at about 8 p.m. Saturday.

She was taken to Hancock Medical Center for treatment of her injuries.

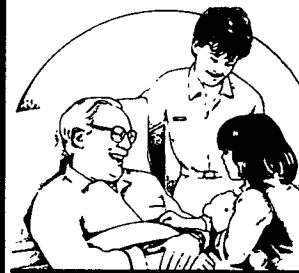

The description of the suspect indicates that he was a white male; about five feet, nine inches tall; and about 16 years old.

Hannah said the incident was reported to Officer Don Osco Sunday morning. The delay in reporting apparently occurred because the woman, who lives in the Barth Street area, has no telephone and did not contact her neighbors. She had been dropped off by a friend with whom she had dinner Saturday night and the crime was not discovered until the same friend returned at about 11 a.m. Saturday.

The man who assaulted the woman apparently took some cash before leaving the house, but the amount has not been determined, Hannah said.

'Pierre the Pelican'

Program to be instituted on parenting, pregnancy in Hancock County by May 1

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Community Task Force to educate parents and young people on pregnancy and parenting is now ready to accept requests for free information.

Janet Polozola, chairman said, "Forms are scheduled to be distributed on May 1 throughout the county at businesses, doctors offices, HMC, Board of Health, and libraries for expectant parents and the parents of children under age six."

The program known as "Pierre the Pelican" is approved by the American Medical Association and has been adopted as a Hancock County United Way Project in connection with the task forces efforts.

Polozola stated, "The 'Pierre the Pelican' program involves the free mailing of literature to a pregnant mother on a monthly basis and after birth until a child is one year old, and then quarterly until the child is six."

The information will include proper health care for child and mother through those years, as well as positive parenting skills.

RSVP will compile the list of names and addresses and handle the mailing of the literature to the respective parties during the time 'Pierre the Pelican' applies.

"Our big need now is to know who these parents to be are and who the parents with youngsters under age six are. This will enable us to send the free literature to them if they wish to receive it," Polozola said.

Persons needing more information on the program or who would like to receive the free newsletter can call 467-9081 and ask for 'Pierre the Pelican' coordinator.

The mailouts will begin as soon as the required literature is on hand and the addresses are processed.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

There is a serious problem in Hancock County with signs being removed from our roadways and highways. One of the primary roadways with problems appears to be the Lower Bay Road.

Sam Cuevas, road maintenance supervisor, told me this week there are sections of Lower Bay Road where the county crews will place a sign one evening and it will be removed by the next day.

Folks this is a bad practice, one reason is because the types of signs removed have been stop, speed limit, curves, and dangerous intersections.

These instructions are very important for motorists; all of these signs are placed there as safeguards for motorists, as well as their passengers.

The signs are not placed by guess. The state sends experts to review the road and suggest the correct locations of specific signs to be installed.

Lower Bay Road is not the only one having signs removed; it is happening throughout the county.

Many times the signs are found alongside a road or thrown into a ditch.

I need not have to mention the number of recent accidents on Lower Bay Road, and I know several people have been seriously injured or killed.

Hancock County Supervisors budgeted $9,000 for the fiscal year of 1988-89 for the purchase of signs.

Only six months has passed in this fiscal year and the county has already spent $14,100 on the purchase of signs.

If this rate continues, the county will overspend by 300% of the original budget.

The additional cost for the signs is not the only burden the tax paying public has to contend with, as installation costs has also to be included.

These extra expenses will probably be showing up next January when we have to pay our property taxes.

The sheriff's department is beefing up patrols on Lower Bay Road and this is very good. We hope some of the culprits are caught. Still it is impossible for a deputy to be stationed along the entire road at one time.

You, the public, can help by reporting anyone tampering with road signs.

Just give the sheriff's office a call at 467-5101 or Sam Cuevas at 255-3367. Your call might save a life. Thank you!

To see the smiles on the faces of our citizens at the Hancock County Senior Citizens and Retired Senior Volunteer Program center on Tuesday was really a thing I will never forget.

We are talking about the open house held at the groups' new facilities which were formerly the Civil Defense offices.

It just goes to show what the cooperation between the elected officials of the city of Bay St. Louis and county can do.

As many of you know, the facility was at one time the Valena C. Jones school and is now used for many services.

The renovations for our senior members is only one phase of an overall renovation and relocation plan by the city of Bay St. Louis.

The next project will involve the Bay St. Louis police and fire departments.

It is so wonderful that we have so many projects for the older members of our area and it is always a joy to see the happy faces of those who participate.

We have many volunteers in our community and we saw many of them enjoying their new facilities.

It is good to see the needed improvements and thanks to everyone involved in making them a reality.

Do you feel as safe in your neighborhood as you do in your own home?

HOMETOWN NEWS From The Capitol City

By Mississippi Reporting Service

The $78 million improvements bonding program and a full-time parole board were among casualties as the Mississippi Legislature ended its official 1989 session last week.

Gov. Ray Mabus, however, has hinted strongly that he will call lawmakers back for a special session to take care of the two matters.

The bonding program would construct and renovate state buildings and equipment. Also on the agenda for a special session could be Mabus' long-awaited Education Reform II, a follow-up to the landmark 1983 reforms.

Rep. J. P. Compretta was in the majority in voting for a full-time parole board. The House bill included a stipulation that no Mabus contributors could be named to the panel.

Mabus said he'd veto any bill with that language, and when the parole board bill reached the Senate floor, it was sent back to committee. At that point, the upper chamber voted to go home. The House adjourned the following day.

Sen. Gene Taylor was in the majority in favoring legislation to set up procedures to close the state's charity hospitals. Mabus forced the issue by vetoing the earlier appropriations bills.

Though the recently completed session lacked some of the fireworks of previous years, it did result in a number of significant changes. Among them are:

Equity funding: Establishes minimum tax levies to help ensure that children throughout the state are receiving close to the same amount of educational funding. In many counties it will mean an increase in local property taxes.

Drunk driving: Eliminates a loophole that had allowed repeat offenders to escape penalties.

Charity hospitals: The three state charity hospitals, all located in the central part of the state, were eliminated, with the money saved going to an expanded Medicaid program.

HOUSE

HB 1485. Established a special election for filling vacancies on the Public Service Commission, rather than appointment by the governor. It passed by a vote of 111 to nine with two absent or not voting, but was vetoed by Gov. Ray Mabus.

HB 728. Established the procedure for closing the state's three charity hospitals and diverting their funding to Medicaid. The vote was 105 to 13 with one voting present and three absent or not voting. Compretta, yes.

HB 168. Established a full-time parole board, with contributors to gubernatorial campaigns prohibited from being appointed. It passed by a vote of 91 to 28 with three absent or not voting but died in the Senate under threat of the governor's veto. Compretta, yes.

SENATE

HB 728. Established the procedure for closing the state's three charity hospitals and diverting their funding to Medicaid. The Senate passed the bill by a vote of 40-9 with two absent or not voting and one vacancy. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

Record number of officials claim Republican status

For Democratic Sheriff W. E. Buddy Eubank of Pontotoc County, the decision to switch to the Republican Party didn't require any arm-twisting. It has been coming on for several years.

So the 46-year-old former state highway patrolman made it official last Friday night when he showed up at the United Republican Fund dinner in Jackson which featured GOP National Chairman Lee Atwater.

"I guess the last presidential election convinced me that it was no use not coming on out and saying I was a Republican," said Eubank, whose Northeast Mississippi home county is in the heart of what was once considered the most Democratic area of the state.

"My feeling is that the Democratic Party is leaving the people, and what they believe in," declared Eubank. "I can identify much more with what the Republicans stand for."

Eubank's switch was one of several party conversions of elected officials last week as the GOP continued to chip away at the Democratic base in a state that once was a pillar of the "Solid South."

Two more state legislators—Reps. J. B. Van Slyke Jr. of Hattiesburg and Mark Scarborough of Florence, abandoned their ties to the Democratic Party and made the switch to the GOP.

That brought to 18 the number of Republicans now in the Legislature, and there were indications that more legislative switches are in the works.

State Republican Chairman Evelyn McPhail conceded that "quite a few (legislators) are talking to us" about changing parties. "We don't try to pressure them. All we do is tell them that our doors are open and that we're the party of the mainstream of Mississippi."

One recent legislative convert, state Sen. Cy Rosenblatt of Jackson, verified that when he went to talk to McPhail about changing parties, "she did not hot-box me, she didn't pressure me."

Of course, the prize recruit to the GOP recently has been

State Auditor Pete Johnson, whose conversion gives the Republicans their first statewide elected official since Reconstruction.

Johnson was seated at the head table of the Republican dinner the other night and accorded a warm reception at his first public appearance as a Republican.

With Johnson, whose family name is associated with a longtime populist-oriented Democratic political faction in Mississippi, in the Republican fold, some GOPers are hoping it will give the party an opening to grass roots Mississippi that it has lacked in the past.

Atwater, a 38-year-old South Carolinian, gives Southern Republicans a strong advocate in a key position in the Republican Party. Because the young GOP National chairman is admittedly a highly partisan politician, he is expected to concentrate on recruiting Democrats in the region he knows best.

One piece of advice Atwater had for Mississippi Republicans the other day was to "reach out and bring blacks to your table." He added: "If we can get some blacks elected to office, they can do more than any of us in bringing blacks into the party."

Out of a crowd of around 500 at the Republican dinner last week, there were about 25 blacks present.

Meanwhile, the Republicans are obviously striving to greatly expand their numbers in municipal offices in elections coming up next month. The GOP will field 342 municipal candidates, about double the number which ran under the Republican banner four years ago.

Mayor Jimmy Kemp of Meridian, who made the conversion to the Republican party recently, gives the GOP the mayor's office in one of the states largest cities.

"I probably got relatives turning over in their graves," Kemp said of his party switch.

If the GOP keeps winning recruits at the rate it has been doing recently, there are a lot more long-deceased Mississippi Democrats who will be spinning in their graves.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sidewalks at Carroll Ave. school bus lot should be considered

To the Editor:

Since the Bay-Waveland School Board has four bus loads of students from Bay Junior High board their buses in the school bus parking lot on Carroll Avenue, why doesn't the board or the city provide a sidewalk from the end of the industrial arts building to the end of the school bus parking lot?

This sidewalk would provide a safe walk and keep wet and muddy shoes from dirtying up the buses. While they are working there, let them re-work the drive itself to save the shocks on the buses and for better drainage.

Sincerely,
Virginia C. Watt

Give youth a chance to be tomorrow's leaders

To the Editor,

I want to speak to you about the upcoming elections. While I'm not heavily involved in politics, I think that my opinion as a concerned citizen gives me the right to speak of improvements of our community.

Being 36 and a resident for a number of those years, I reflect back on the days when my father, his friends and many of that generation talked about building our community through the younger generation.

They stressed educating children and instilling in their minds that their knowledge and expertise are needed in the community. It seems to me that most of the young generation are moving on to better locations outside of their hometowns.

In my opinion, it is because they are not given the chance they deserve. I cannot understand why most people are going back to the old ways and not accepting new ideas, or better yet, not accepting young minds.

I ask you, why are you educating your children to be able to run for public office when you make excuses like he or she is too young or doesn't have enough experience.

I believe that everyone deserves a chance. Especially if that young public office contender could bring new industries to our community for the many jobless citizens. I would like to see my kids some day bring their education home to build up the community, here and not 3,000 miles away.

So let's think about the welfare of our community and our younger generation. Let's put them in a position to implement their experiences from colleges and set goals for improving our community.

Thanks,
David Johnson

Take up the fight in war against drugs

Drug abuse and the tremendous impact it is having on our society has opened many eyes to the continuous struggle we face in fighting this war against drugs. This terrible crisis has become a focus of concern here in the United States and around the world.

It is hard to believe that at least one drug-related killing has occurred daily in our nation's capital since the first of January. This epidemic is not only taking place in Washington. These senseless murders are happening everywhere.

We can no longer sit back and hope this problem will disappear by itself. We must put a stop to the drugs coming into this country and educate our people about the harm of using these illegal substances. The time has come for the United States to stand firm and take the lead in this fight against drugs.

The United States Congress expressed its concerns for the growing tragedy last year by passing the Omnibus Drug Initiative Act of 1988. This particular piece of legislation finally recognizes that we have a national crisis on our hands and something must be done to save our children and the children of the future.

In March, I joined several other senators to voice concern and disapproval over the way we continue to aid and facilitate other countries which play a major role in supplying our people with these deadly drugs.

Today, Mexico is the number one source of heroin being brought into this country. Despite this fact, we have not reduced by one dollar our share of money that goes toward the billions needed to finance their foreign debt through the World Bank and other U.S. funded institutions.

While we extend our friendship and funding to these countries, they continue to enhance the drug problem we are working so hard to fight. It just does not make sense. Why should we turn our backs and respond so calmly?

Some people at the State Department say that it is good business for us to maintain strong ties with these nations. They want the aid to continue. I say we are only supporting their efforts to kill our children. I

Farm Bureau opposes minimum wage increase

Viewed as having severe negative consequences on agriculture, pending legislation to increase the minimum wage has drawn the opposition of Farm Bureau.

Don Waller, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, has communicated his organization's displeasure with the legislation to Mississippi's Congressional delegation.

Prior to the passage of HR 2 by the House of Representatives, Waller had called on the state's delegation to vote against an increase in the minimum wage.

"It would definitely impair the ability of our nation's farmers to make a profit, and would increase the unemployment level drastically nationwide," Waller stated.

The state's farm leader has now called on the state's senators to vigorously oppose the passage of the bill which would increase the minimum wage from its present $3.35 per hour to $4.55 per hour.

Farm Bureau's position calls for opposition to any increase in the minimum wage, especially if such legislation does not include a training wage provision. Waller indicated HR 2 does contain a version of a training wage, but it is essentially meaningless for most employers, especially agricultural employers.

The bill passed by the House limits a $3.35 per hour training wage for first-time employees to two months. This applies only to persons who have never worked before, doing nothing to protect the vast majority of low-skilled, entry-level workers.

Waller indicated the bill also specifically prohibits agricultural employers from offering or paying the training wage to any agricultural employee.

Another concern of the farm organization is the creation of a Congressionally-appointed "Minimum Wage Review Board" whose mandate is to recommend an increase every two years. Waller called this a back-door indexing of the federal minimum wage.

Farm Bureau feels strongly that the increase will result in the loss of over half a million jobs. The Department of Labor has estimated 650,000 job losses, calling it a conservative figure.

The bill is expected to be on the floor of the Senate as early as the second week of April.

Minimum wage increase supported by Rep. Espy

It has been eight years since the minimum wage has been increased. The U.S. House of Representatives recently took action to change that by approving a $1.20 minimum wage increase from $3.35 per hour to $4.55 by 1992. It supported this raise for several reasons.

After careful deliberations with my constituents, colleagues and governmental staff, I concluded that the increase is desperately needed for low-income working families and that, based on a General Accounting Office study, it will not have any significant impact upon employment in the Second Congressional District of Mississippi.

I also favored the minimum wage bill because of two important provisions: one exempts small businesses from the wage increase, and the other raises the "tip credit" from 40 percent to 50 percent over a two-year period. This credit represents the part of the minimum wage that can be earned in tips by employees, such as waiters and waitresses. The rest is paid by the employers.

The Fair Labor Standards Act Amendments of 1989, which passed by a vote of 246 to 178, provides for a series of annual increases, starting with an increase from $3.35 to $3.85 in 1990, then to $4.25 in 1991, and finally to $4.55 in 1992. The bill now goes before the Senate for consideration.

To fail to increase the minimum wage to $4.55, would be to ignore the growing hardships faced by the working poor. Had the minimum wage kept pace with inflation since 1981—the last year it was increased—it would now stand at about $4.57 per hour.

Back in the 1960s and 1970s, a man or woman who worked year-round, full-time, at minimum wage earned enough to keep a family of three above the poverty line. Now that same person's earnings fall about 30 percent below the poverty line for a three-member family.

During debate on this issue, many argued that most of the minimum wage workers are teenagers without significant family responsibilities. This is simply not true.

More than two-thirds of minimum wage workers are adults; more than 25 percent are heads of households, and seven out of ten minimum wage workers living below the poverty line are their family's only earner.

Congress must ensure that the working poor regains its purchasing power and that working mothers and fathers are able to provide their children with basic necessities. Working families near poverty need an incentive to keep working, rather than see public support as a real alternative.

At the same time, Congress must also ensure that such a raise not jeopardize jobs and result in enormous job loss. I shared this concern with small business owners in the Second District, and, as a result, I commissioned a study from the General Accounting Office in Washington, D.C., to determine how a minimum wage increase would affect my district.

The non-partisan GAO staff concluded that a minimum wage increase will have a "minimal impact on employment" and that the small business exemption will exclude "many small 'Mom and Pop' businesses in the district from coverage."

This provision of the bill will exempt retail and service industries with gross sales of less than $500,000—an increase from the current $362,500 threshold.

Additionally, the study found that the increase will have minimal impact upon the food and service industry hiring tipped employees.

During 1989, the tip credit is increased from 40 percent to 45 percent, leaving the minimum wage paid by employers at only $2.12 an hour.

During 1990, the bill increases the tip credit again to 50 percent. By 1992, the minimum wage paid by employers will be $2.53—an amount near the current average wages of $2.42 to $3 an hour for tipped employees in the Second District.

Since the passage of the first Minimum Wage Act of 1938, Americans have determined that an economic and social imperative exists to protect the standard of living of all workers and establish a wage floor which salaries in this country will not be allowed to fall.

Congress must make it clear that it still believes the end of the shovel is better than the end of a soup line. But, we must also make it clear that the wage is worth the labor and that work is more rewarding than government relief.

I believe Congress, in the long-accepted American tradition of establishing a decent wage floor for workers, sent the right message in its passage of the minimum wage increase.

want these counties to cut the supply or we will cut off the aid. It is that simple.

Not only must we stop the supply of drugs from coming into our country, we must focus on teaching our children that drugs kill. We must provide this information in our schools and in our homes to make sure everyone realizes that the consequences of drug addiction can be deadly. If we continue to ignore this crisis, it will take control of our society and its future.

I will not quietly stand by and watch this great country and its high ideals and moral values erode. As your senator, and as a father, I plan to make sure to protect my family and yours by using every available resource. And if that means calling on the U.S. military to play a role in this fight, so be it. We must take necessary actions in order to prevent this tragedy from taking charge of our lives.

President George Bush and Director of the National Drug Control Policy William Bennett have made a commitment to fight this war against drugs. Now we must make ours, to work together and put an end to this battle.

Selling Hancock County

Port and Harbor Commission sells prospects on industrial facilities, quality of life

Special to the Echo
By LISA MONTI

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, which spearheads the local economic development activities, was established in 1962.

The seven commission members and staff of four promote development that, in turn, creates new jobs, enhances the tax base and generally boosts the local economy.

The commission works on behalf of all residents of Hancock County in cooperation with the network of local and state agencies, ranging from the county's Chamber of Commerce to the Mississippi Department of Economic Development.

The commissioners and staff act as "salesmen," and their product is the entire county, not just Port Bienville Industrial Park and Stennis Industrial Airpark.

"Selling Hancock County is a fifty-fifty proposition," according to Harold "Buz" Olsen, the commission's executive director. The Port and Harbor Commission must sell prospects on the available industrial facilities while promoting the county's educational system, recreational opportunities, cost of living, housing and labor force, among other factors.

"Economic development is far more than selling property," Olsen said. "It's just as important to sell the county from the quality-of-life aspect as it is to sell our abundance of land and all the amenities that go along with it—rail, water and air transportation and everything else. You sell the whole thing."

Olsen said that prospects look at a potential location for business and industry from a "bottom line" and a personal point of view. "Beyond what the industrial park and airpark have to offer are considerations that chief executive officers make in regard to where they will live and what an area has to offer their employees and their families—everything from school systems to cultural activities."

Olsen said that part of the county's appeal is its proximity to other coastal cities and New Orleans. "We take prospects anywhere within a range of 60 miles, to show them what's available within a short driving distance. We don't act as though there's a barrier around Hancock County."

"The only thing we expect out of industries is that they give people who live in the area an opportunity to work for them," he said. "The people in Hancock County and on the Coast are dedicated people who like to work hard to make a good wage."

Olsen said that prospects contact the commission office directly or are referred by the state's Department of Economic Development, which serves as a "matchmaker" between industries and local development organizations.

Several large companies have recently been referred by DED, according to Olsen. "That says a lot for this commission, that we can handle them when they get here. DED will send prospects to an area where they know boards such as our commission can work well with them, that can put a solid project together, and where the infrastructure—the utilities and transportation network—is in place."

But the process of attracting businesses and industries is a slow one that can take years from initial contact to construction. "Anything can happen in between a contact and ground-breaking, a multitude of things. And in this business of economic development, second just isn't good enough," said Olsen.

He added, "You can never tell when a prospect will pay off. Usually, when a company plans a move or expansion, it's not going to happen right now; it's going to be a year or two from now. There are budget considerations, site investigations, it's a long and drawn out process. It takes working with a company over and over, getting them what they want and being precise about it. It took seven years to get Borg Warner here."

The commissioners and staff must be familiar with all aspects of the community and ready to answer an array of questions from prospects.

"You've got to know about all sorts of things and be able to provide factual information. We've got to be able to give them statistics about any number of things, such as the percentage of our school graduates who attend college. You've got to have a good, working knowledge about the county. The Chamber of Commerce is a valuable source of information for the commission," Olsen added.

In addition to working with prospects referred at the state level, the commission does marketing of the area in conjunction with the Harrison County Development Commission and the Jackson County Economic Development District.

Olsen stated, "Tri-county advertising saves us money. Our common goal is to get the prospects to the Coast first and then see which county best meets their requirements."

Olsen said the commission's economic development efforts are aided by the presence of John C. Stennis Space Center. "The fact that the Stennis Center is here is always an attraction because of the quality of work force that's required by the federal government agencies there. Also, wages here are good, and I think the space center has a lot to do with that."

The Port and Harbor Commission's third annual Salute to Industry will recognize the Stennis Space Center and the companies which provide valuable services to the center's operation. The public is invited to attend the program which will be held April 28 at 7:30 a.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

River Extravaganza features 13 restaurants

Local residents will not have to travel very far to sample good Mississippi Gulf Coast cooking April 30, they can find it in Poplarville at the second annual Pearl River Community College "River Extravaganza," which is scheduled to start at 5 p.m. in the Marvin R. White Coliseum.

Lil' Rays of Waveland will be one of the restaurants bringing tasty Coast cuisine north with his selection of boiled shrimp and crawfish.

"We're very excited about having Lil' Rays with us this year," said Donna Wilson, director of PRC's Development Foundation, which is sponsoring the event. "We will be having 13 restaurants participate this year—four more than last spring—and I can't tell you how much their help means to the success of this program."

Last year the foundation was able to raise $9,000 at the event, and Wilson explained that the money was used to fund scholarships for local students and to purchase teaching equipment.

With six locations in South Mississippi and Louisiana, Lil' Rays has specialized in boiled shrimp and crawfish, fried oysters, gumbo and all types of po-boys since it began operations in 1970.

The restaurant is owned by Ray Kidd of Waveland. He and his wife, Jackie, have three children.

In addition to the food fest, the Extravaganza will also feature entertainment by Cajun comedian Justin Wilson and music by local band "Dealer's Choice," as well as an auction.

Lower Bay enforcement beefed up in response to number of accidents

BY D.C. HARVILL

In an effort to curtail the number of accidents on Lower Bay Road, Hancock County Sheriff's Department is increasing its enforcement efforts along that stretch of asphalt.

"Over the past several weeks we have had some bad accidents and several minor accidents on Lower Bay Road. The problem needs immediate attention, so we are investing a lot of time patrolling that road," said Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Sharon Klein of Waveland remains hospitalized following an accident last Wednesday involving three cars, and a March 22 accident claimed the life of Lakeshore resident Lambert Bordages.

The accidents can be attributed to a number of factors, according to the sheriff.

Both accidents occurred during bad weather when someone was on someone else's side of the road, Peterson said.

"It's not the best road in the world; there are a lot of curves and it is very slippery when it rains. We also have some driving at excessive speed," Peterson said.

The speed limit for the road

now is posted at 35 miles per hour, the sheriff said.

County Supervisor Robert Peterson has placed numerous additional signs along the road marking dangerous curves and posting the speed limit, according to Sheriff Peterson.

Because they are not allowed to use radar in ticketing speed violators, unlike the Mississippi Highway Patrol and city police departments, it is difficult for sheriff's officers to enforce speed limits, the sheriff said.

Sheriff's officers also will be looking for vandals who have been taking down and defacing signs along the road, he said.

"We are going to do whatever we can to see that people stay within the speed limit. We now have a unit that patrols the street eight hours a day.

"By letting the public know what the situation is, hopefully we can get them to cooperate with us," the sheriff said.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

The glorious Spring weather over last weekend, along with the unexpected cold snap, then sunshine again as I write this, have truly played havoc with the housekeeping chores around my house, which is never, never, ever up to House and Garden's below-minimum standards at the best of times. But I'm the happier for it, and make no apologies if you happen by!

I had spent most of Saturday and Sunday happily working in the yard and what passes for my garden, brown-thumber that I am, digging and planting and re-potting plants to a fare-thee-well. And when the chill of the next couple of days sent me scurrying indoors, instead of getting busy with household chores, what did I do?

I spent quite a few hours curled up on the sofa in the den riffling through and reading through a stack of regional cookbooks lent to me for perusal by Walter Gordon—and it's a tried and true friend who will trust you with favorite cookbooks!

One book, which I had had in my collection of cookbooks some time ago, but which had somehow disappeared from the shelves, is Cotton Country Collection, favorite recipes of the Junior League of Monroe, La.—and quite a collection it is.

And quite popular—it's already gone through more than a dozen printings since its publication in 1972, and that should tell you something!

Among interesting recipes which I found in this book, and which I have tried with tasty results, was this hors d'oeuvre, called simply:

ONION CANAPE

6 large onions
1/2 lb. hot sausage (bulk)
Pepperidge Farm dressing

mix

Bouillon

Salt to taste

Cayenne pepper to taste

Boil the onions until soft, drain and cool. Cook the sausage until crumbly and brown. Add enough dressing mix and bouillon to make a thick stuffing, and season to taste with salt and cayenne.

Separate the onions into large leaves. Place a generous amount of dressing on each leaf and roll up as for an old-fashioned cigarette, then refrigerate until ready to serve. Broil directly under the flame to brown and heat through. (This makes 40 to 50).

And, for onion lovers such as I, here's:

SWISS ONION SQUARES

1 egg, well beaten
3/4 cup milk
2 cups biscuit mix
2 Tbsp. poppy seeds
2 cups chopped sweet onion
2 Tbsp. butter
1 egg
3/4 cup sour cream
1/2 tsp. salt, or to your taste
1/4 tsp. black pepper
Paprika

Blend the beaten egg and milk with the biscuit mix and poppy seeds. Turn into greased 9 x 9-inch pan. Fry off the onions in butter until tender and lightly browned, and spread on the dough mixture.

Beat the second egg with the sour cream and season to taste with salt and pepper. Spread over the onions. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Cut into squares, sprinkle with paprika and serve very hot. (12 to 15 medium-size appetizers, more, of course, cut into tiny squares). And, pass the peppermints later!

Reader seeks pudding recipe

Editor's note: The following letter from a California subscriber asks readers for a recipe for raisin pudding prepared years ago by the old Bobbi Ann Bakery on Main Street. Replies may be sent to The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, 39521.

Dear Ms. Caire,
I am a subscriber to The Sea Coast Echo for many years and look forward to receiving each issue. I enjoy reading about the happenings in and around Bay St. Louis and other newsworthy features.

And, I never miss your column...many of your recipes are in my collection. It is interesting to read about the source of some of the recipes you use.

There are many super cooks in and around Bay St. Louis and hopefully one of these days The Sea Coast Echo will sponsor a contest to "air" the recipes for the many delicious dishes that some few enjoy. The contest could be similar to the annual Times-Picayune contest (section published on March 26)—the home economics department of local high school could be enlisted for the "final cookoff"—an idea you may have already tossed about in thought.

Now for the reason of writing you. For many years the Bobbi Ann Bakery offered the delicious and unusual raisin puddings (about the size of a cupcake or muffin) which I think were known by the owners as Washington Pies.

I have searched my large collection of cookbooks and there is no Washington Pie. In the 1940s the Jacobi family operated the Bobby Ann Bakery in Waveland near the grammar school and the raisin puddings were favorites along with the coconut jelly rolls. The puddings were very good.

Perhaps some of your readers may have the recipe (and name of cookbook) and would be willing to send to you for publication, or possibly the Lizana family (heirs of Jacobi) could give you some information.

Some years back I wrote to the bakery and received a reply stating that the puddings were Washington Pies—nothing further. I would really like to know where I can find the recipe for a memory treat. This has to be a very old recipe.

In closing I want to again tell you that I enjoy your column and hope to hear from you soon in response to the above inquiry.

Sincerely,
Genie F. Foglesonger
(Mrs. John D.)

Yard sale
season is here

Spring yard sales have long been popular bargain sources for people in Hancock County. Quality clothing articles, especially children's clothing, can be among the best bargains at these sales.

While prices may be low at yard sales, buyers should beware of problems with yard-sale garments.

Just because clothing is inexpensive, don't buy anything if it is not a good fit. If the clothing is content labels that will guide you in caring for the clothes.

In Mississippi, $5 is about the maximum price for a single garment at a yard sale. Normally, prices will be in the $1 to $2 range.

If you have a quality garment and are hoping to sell it for a higher price, you may want to take clothing in good condition to consignment shops or second-hand clothing stores.

A percentage of the sale price will go to the store. In most cases the prices are set by the retailers rather than the supplier for more consistent pricing. In most cases, all sales are final from resale stores.

Check the stitching, seams, hems, zippers, button holes and buttons. Make sure any elastic in the garment still has good stretch-ability.

Ideally, the sellers will clean all clothing before putting it on sale. However, you should watch especially for permanent stains or undesirable color fading. Look for the care and fabric not comfortable, a child won't wear it or it could be a safety hazard. Clothing that is too large for a child can cause tripping or snag on something.

Never take it for granted that the clothing will be in good condition. Examine fabrics carefully, especially in areas of most wear such as collars, cuffs, knees, pockets and elbows.

'Coast Encounters' involves all Hancock County schools

High school, junior high and elementary students in every school in Hancock County have been busy putting the final touches on the subject of space exploration as part of the upcoming NASA Community Involvement Program called, "Coast Encounters: A Space Age Adventure in Science Literacy for the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

The endeavor is jointly sponsored by a team of education, community and business leaders from the Gulf Coast and officials with the John C. Stennis Space Center.

NASA Community Involvement Programs such as "Coast Encounters," which will be held April 16 through May 5 in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties, focus the national resources of the entire space agency on particular communities to stimulate and capture the imagination of youth in the areas of science and mathematics.

Through these programs NASA introduces students to the challenges to careers in these fields by providing aerospace lecturers to speak in schools and by placing space-related exhibits in various locations in the community.

As part of the local Community Involvement Program, schools in the four-county area have completed poster and essay contests. Five posters which were chosen from each school to be a part of the final judging are currently on display at the Pearl River Community College Vocational-Technical Center at Stennis, Airport.

During the week of April 3 through April 7, judges from the Artwave, an alliance of professional artists from the Gulf Coast, chose three of the five posters from each school to advance to finals.

These posters will be displayed at Edgewater Mall in Biloxi. Overall winners will be announced during formal opening ceremonies of "Coast Encounters," which will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 16 at Edgewater Mall.

All participants in the poster contest will receive a certificate and a NASA patch. The overall grand prize winners will be given a scholarship to attend Space Camp at the Alabama Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville, Ala.

In the essay contest, entitled "America in Space: Where Do We Go From Here?" students in grades four through 12 used their creative writing skills to express their views on America's future in the space program. They discussed other planets, life support systems, space stations and other topics.

INVOLVED in special projects for NASA's Total Community Involvement Program, students at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School are busy creating activity books. From left are Sean Evans, Daryl Acker, Jeremy DeStarkey, Destiny Tops, Latoya Acker and Sarah Russell. Each class at the school was involved in the project. The books contained fun learning activities such as finger puppets, game boards, space puzzles and paper badges. As part of the Adopt-A-School Program, Pan Am will make a combined booklet and these will be distributed to NASA, schools and at public places.

ARTS

Slidell Little Theatre stages 'High Spirits'

'High Spirits,' a musical transformation of Noel Coward's comedy success called 'Blithe Spirit,' about a man with the ghosts of two wives to haunt him, is coming to Slidell Little Theatre for four weekends beginning April 28.

Debbie McArn Lefort stars as Mme. Arcati, the well-meaning but bumbling spiritualistic medium who brings about the husband's hilarious dilemma by summoning up the ghost of his departed first wife during a seance, and then can't get her back where she belongs.

At the beginning of this spoofing musical, the situation in the home of a writer named Charles Condomine is perfectly normal. He irritates his wife Ruth by recalling a little too fondly and too often his previous wife, Elvira, who died seven years previously.

Needing some experience of how a seance is conducted for a book he is writing, Charles invites Mme. Arcati to give a demonstration in his home. She succeeds only too well—not only does she get a message from Beyond, she materializes Elvira herself.

Elvira's return is no blessing to Charles or anyone else. Heaven has not improved her, and she is as willful a nagger as she ever was when alive. She refuses to return to the 'Other World' unless she can take Charles with her.

Camille Dennis will appear—and that is the word—as the mischievous phantom from the Other World. Bill Ulm and Judy Hinkeldey as the couple plagued by her presence, Nancy Eppert as their maid servant fuddled with the spook business, Bob Fry and Pat Bufardi as the writer's neighbors who attend the fatal seance. Others in the cast include David Hoyt, Brandi Kirk, Derrick Mittelstaedt, Greg Lybanon, Maliaca Strom of Bay St. Louis, Phil Neer and Julia Ramey.

Bob Gault is directing this musical mockery of spiritualism, with special attention to its debonair Noel Coward wit, Darlene Haik is staging its fast-paced dances, and Nolan Lefort is designing the show's eight settings, the last of which is heaven itself.

'High Spirits' will run weekends April 28 through May 20 with performances on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and matinees at 3 p.m. on May 7 and 14. Reservations are being accepted now from members and season ticket holders.

Jeff Davis Singers present spring concert

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, Jefferson Davis Campus Singers will appear in a Spring Choral Concert on Friday, April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Jeff Davis Fine Arts Auditorium.

Under the direction of Adam Ortiz, the vocal group will present a variety of music, including classical sacreds, art songs and contemporary choral works. The ladies sextet and a male quartet will perform as well.

Members of the sextet include Lisa Foley, Alison Bohannon, Veronica Campbell, Karen Gonzalez, Michelle Fullilove and Karena Vernon. The quartet includes Bobby Bawcum, Michael Caylor, James Askew and Ortiz.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Docents sought by CES to guide tours on Elissa

Coast Episcopal Schools is looking for docents (tour guides) to conduct tours on the tall ship Elissa. The ship will be in Gulfport May 7 through 13, and will be open for tours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Training sessions with representatives of the Galveston Historical Foundation, owners of the Elissa, have been scheduled for April 20 at 1 p.m. or 7 p.m. at the Pass Christian Yacht club.

This training will familiarize the volunteers with the areas of the ship and prepare them for conducting tours to the general public and to school groups.

Anyone interested in volunteering to docent on the Elissa is asked to call Mary Mizell at Coast Episcopal High School, 452-9442, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and after 4 p.m. at 255-9580.

Perk slates tryouts for cheerleaders

Young men and women planning to attend Gulf Coast Community College this year are invited to a cheerleader workshop and tryout Saturday and Sunday, April 22 and 23, on the Perkinston Campus.

Scholarships are available for cheerleaders and mascots for football and basketball.

There is no charge for the workshop, and participants will be housed overnight in campus dormitories.

The first day, participants will work on cheers, a dance routine and a pompom routine with GCCC cheerleaders. Personal interviews will be conducted that evening.

Tryouts will be the second day. There are openings for 10 football cheerleaders, six basketball cheerleaders and two mascots.

PASSOVER

Mississippi ETV's award-winning documentary 'Passover' will be rebroadcast again this Passover season at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 19.

Narrated by Edward Asner and filmed on location in Israel by ETV, 'Passover' details the history, practice and significance of Passover, celebrated each spring by Jews in remembrance of the Exodus, led by Moses, from Egypt into Israel more than 3,000 years ago.

The beginning of Passover, which is April 20 this year, is observed at the seder, a home service centered around a very special meal.

An American seder is the program's focal point. Also filmed were seders practiced by several Israeli families. The scene of another well-known Jewish seder is included: the Upper Room where Jesus and the 12 disciples participated in the Last Supper.

Other sequences shot on location in Israel show art from several rare, historic Haggadahs (Passover prayer books); an Israeli dance troupe; and several geographical locations that pertain to the Passover story: the Sinai Desert, Jericho and the Western Wall, the last remaining wall of the Second Temple.

Computerized graphics for marine vessels researched by USM, Genesis System

A Mississippi Gulf Coast concern and an educator in the School of Engineering Technology at the University of Southern Mississippi have joined forces to develop custom instrument displays for marine supply and tow vessels.

The Genesis System of Bay St. Louis and USM Associate Professor Dr. Allen E. Leybourne have entered into a collaborative effort to outfit river and ocean-going marine vessels with the latest in computer graphic applications.

"The on-board computers, which gather and store information such as engine power and ship speed, presently display data in numeric form," said Genesis President Walter Todd, "but in the future, we will use computer graphics in keeping with developments in aviation and the automotive industry."

Dr. Leybourne, USM graduate student Miguel Rivas and Genesis engineer David Reynolds will attempt to adapt a method developed at USM to economically produce the graphic displays of ship systems and conditions requested by Genesis' customers.

"An iconic (symbolic) graphics library will be developed, which can be used for customized display of navigational and other instrumentation results," Leybourne said. "These (symbols) will be manipulated as objects, with customization of the displays available through a high-level computerized interface."

According to Reynolds, Genesis was founded some eight years ago, in response to pressure from increased fuel costs, to provide improved on-board energy resource management. Marine vessels, he said—unlike aircraft and land vehicles—vary widely and require customized displays, which are subject to revision after installation.

"Individual preferences of captains still influence what equipment and instruments appear in the pilot house," he said.

Leybourne said the cooperative effort promises to pave the way toward lower costs and speedier production of custom graphics.

"This initial demonstration project could open the door for a wide variety of object-oriented, customized computer graphics display systems, and will be the first thesis of its type at USM," he said.

'Sewing as a Business' workshop set at MSU

Are you good a sewing? Would you like to make extra income at home? Do your friends often ask you for sewing advice? Do you want to learn the very latest trends in home sewing? If your answer is yes to these questions, then this workshop may be just for you.

The Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a five-day "Sewing As A Business" workshop designed for those who already have established or are interested in establishing a home-based sewing business. The business may be sewing for profit and/or teaching sewing for profit.

The workshop will focus on developing skills to make your business professional and profitable. In the workshop you will learn the basic business skills necessary for turning your sewing talent into profit. You will also learn how to market your talent effectively.

In addition, you will learn all about the most current trends in home sewing including types, sources and costs of new equipment and products.

Topics to be covered include: how to keep accurate records for the best tax advantages, how to determine what prices to charge for your services, how to economically set up a sewing area in your home, sources for obtaining sewing notions, business supplies, fabrics, equipment and professional publications, and much more.

During the workshop each participant will complete an interfacing reference library to take home for future use, using a variety of fabrics and interfacing. They will also complete a notebook of 20 different samples using a new serger machine.

The workshop will be held at Mississippi State University the week of June 5-9. For more information and/or application, contact Darlene Underwood, County Extension home economist at 467-5456. Applications are due by April 15.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1989-1B

SECTION B

Winds test young sailors in Championship regatta

BY D.C. HARVILL

The mettle of young sailors competing in a championship regatta over the weekend was tested by high winds.

The Area D-1 Optimist Championship opened Saturday morning to winds approaching 20 knots.

"It was tough for them Saturday; but they performed at the best of their ability. When the wind is at 20 knots it becomes difficult for someone 60 to 65 pounds to sail hard toward the wind; it just blows them off course," said regatta coordinator Hank Renken.

Sunday's conditions were more favorable, with 10- to 15-knot winds greeting the budding seamen.

Overall winners, based on Olympic scoring, were:

1st—John Rawlins, (Southern Yacht Club).

2nd—John Alden Meade, (SYC).

3rd—Alice Manard, (SYC).

4th—Alan Uram, (Bay-Waveland Yacht Club).

5th—Ward Cromwell, (SYC).

Red Fleet (13-14)

1st—John Rawlins, (SYC).

2nd—John Alden Meade, (SYC).

3rd—Alice Manard, (SYC).

4th—Mallory Mestayer, (BWYC).

Blue Fleet (11-13)

1st—Sanders Kane, (BWYC).

2nd—Caroline Weems, (BWYC).

3rd—Wade Tornoyos, (SYC).

4th—Michael Dupin, (SYC).

5th—David Dabney, (Mobile Yacht Club).

White Fleet (9-10)

1st—Alan Uram, (BWYC).

2nd—Daniel Meade, (SYC).

3rd—Chad Renken, (BWYC).

4th—Willem Young, (SYC).

5th—John Dane, (Pass Christian Yacht Club).

Green Fleet (Beginners)

Time Out

By Dena Bisnette

There's a little of everything you can do in warm weather going on in sports this week. Hopefully, this sudden little bit of winter which decided to come back won't interfere with events.

By the way, as it gets warmer, please be careful driving around ballparks and playgrounds after school hours and on weekends. Children seem to be everywhere. Also, there are so many participating in the organized sports programs these days, it appears to cause a lot of on-street parking, so please slow down.

A new Dixie Boys Baseball league for 13- and 14-year-old boys is recruiting players in Kiln.

Any boys 13 before Aug. 1 and not 15 before that date will be considered eligible if they are not on another league's roster.

For more information, contact Louis or Joey Breaux at 255-7158 after 5 p.m. Parents are also invited to join.

Auriol Hessemer and her riding students, who brought home several awards from their last show, will compete this Saturday and Sunday in the Foxview Horse Trails in Arbita Springs. Future plans include the Emerald Fox Horse Trials in New Orleans, La., May 6. Good luck to all the riders.

Don't forget! Hunter education instructors are still needed here in Hancock County; there will be an instructor's workshop Saturday from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the headquarters building in Paul B. Johnson State Park near Hattiesburg.

Instructors will be certified upon completion of the course, but in order to qualify they must already have completed the hunter education student course.

For more information, contact Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation at 961-5300 or call Antoine Boyd at 467-9394.

There's another benefit sports event coming up next month: the eighth annual March of Dimes Softball tournament. The event is May 19, 20 and 21 at the Milner Stadium Softball Complex in Gulfport, so it's time to start getting your teams organized.

Entries are $85 if the check is received by May 8 and $100 if they arrive after that date. Contact the March of Dimes office in Gulfport at 896-0886 if you want to register a team.

The double elimination tournament is sanctioned by ASA and includes a men's B/C division with openings for 28 teams and a women's division with slots for 12 teams.

University of Southern Mississippi has a few home events on the sports calendar this week. The Eagles play Saturday at 5 p.m. and again Sunday at 2 p.m. against Memphis State. There's also a 1 p.m. softball game Saturday against Southwestern Louisiana.

Did anyone around here play on the University of Mississippi men's or women's tennis team? If so, there will be a reunion next Friday and Saturday, April 21-22, on the Oxford campus.

Do you still have your racquet? A doubles tournament for reunion participants is planned, with registration at noon Friday at Magnolia Courts tennis complex. Later, you can party at a barbecue in The Grove.

Other activities are also planned in conjunction with the school's 1989 Spring Homecoming. For more information, call 232-5944.

If you plan to attend Gulf Coast Community College this year and want to try out for cheerleader, there's a workshop Saturday, April 22, at the Perkinston campus, followed by try-out Sunday, April 23.

The workshop is free and overnight housing will be available in the dormitories. Competition may be tough, as there are openings for only 10 football and six basketball cheerleaders and two mascots, but winning a slot could mean a scholarship.

The application deadline is Tuesday and information is available from Susan Lamey or Diane Allen at 928-5211.

SSC baseball team to play for first place

On Friday evening, the SSC baseball team travels to St. Martin to vie for first place in the District 4A baseball race.

St. Martin currently leads the pack with a 4-1 record, followed by St. Stanislaus with a 4-2 record. Both of SSC's losses have been in extra inning ballgames, including an 8-6 loss to St. Martin in eight innings.

"I told our squad their destiny is completely in their hands, and that's the way it should be," said Head Coach Mike Gemelli.

"There'll be nothing fancy about this ballgame. We want to go over to Biloxi and prove ourselves. I believe we have better talent, more pitching depth, and a fierce desire to be the district champs. But it's not up to me—it's up to our ballplayers."

Game time is set for 6 p.m. with either Cedric Smith or Greg Schruoff scheduled to be the starting pitcher.

Bay High Tigers win one, lose two

The Bay High Tigers have taken a victory and two losses this week.

The team is preparing for a string of five district games at home; they are scheduled to begin this week if the weather is suitable.

On Saturday, the Tigers turned in some fine offense to defeat Poplarville 10-8 at Pearl River Community College.

Although Poplarville hit some home runs off Charlie Mitchell, they were not enough to overcome the base hits by the young Bay High team and defense by Doug Power, David Weems, Kyle LaFontaine, Calvin Thigpen, Thomas Brinks, Will Seymour, Darrell Murphy, Mitchell and Chris Heaps.

The Tigers scored seven runs in the second inning behind some clean shots by Heaps, Mitchell, Power and Brinks.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers journeyed to Back Bay to play Mercy Cross, losing 3-1.

The Tigers put together three base hits and one walk in the second inning to score their only run.

The base hits were turned in by Murphy, Mitchell and Weems. LaFontaine drew a base on balls to score Murphy from third.

Seymour pitched a little more than five innings before being relieved by Weems. The pitching from Seymour was good, as he seemed to have excellent control until the bottom of the fifth, when Mercy Cross started putting together some solid base hits to score three runs.

Weems, in relief, was able to hold Mercy Cross to only those three runs.

On Tuesday evening, Bay High hosted Vancleave at Tiger Stadium, losing 9-4.

In the bottom of the third inning, Vancleave scored one run. The Tigers answered the call to tie the score with a single by Thigpen, a fielder's choice by Weems and a single by Scott Barnes.

In the top of the fourth, Vancleave scored three runs on some costly errors by the Tigers. The bottom of the fourth, however, was very good for Bay High, with a single by Murphy and bases on balls by Mitchell and LaFontaine, but the team could only muster one run when Heaps hit into a double play and the next batter struck out.

In the fifth, Vancleave scored one run and the Tigers went three up, three down.

The Tigers were still in the game with a score of 5-2, but in the sixth Vancleave scored another run. Weems relieved Mitchell and the bottom of the sixth looked like it might be the Tigers' inning when Power led off with a single to left, but Mitchell hit into a double play. LaFontaine drew a walk, Heaps walked and Power scored from third.

Brinks hit a ground ball to the second baseman and was on base with an error, scoring Murphy from third. All the Tigers could get in the seventh was two runs.

Three runs by Vancleave in the top of the seventh put the game away. Weems was losing pitcher.

SSC tennis faces tough competition

This season the St. Stanislaus tennis team, under the expert guidance of Coach Myron Labat, has continued to improve as they weave their way through one of the most challenging schedules ever played by an SSC tennis team.

After the loss of last year's No. 1 singles player, Manuel Gonzales, the Rock-A-Chaws still managed to return five veterans to this year's solid lineup.

"There are no superstars on this year's team as of yet, but we probably have more depth, competition, and team spirit on this squad than on any team I've coached so far," commented Coach Labat.

"What is also impressive is the fact that there are no seniors on this year's roster, so we can look forward to being even tougher in the future," added Coach Labat.

This year's current record of five wins and four losses is not really indicative of the level of tennis the Rock-A-Chaws have played, basically because of the 14 matches scheduled, nine are with District 5A teams. St. Stanislaus is in District 4A.

"By playing such a tough schedule, we hope to be better prepared for top-level tennis when the district and state tournament time comes. We definitely hope to improve on last year's semi-final showing in the state tournament in both the boys' singles and the boys' doubles. This is our goal," concluded Coach Labat.

USM's '88 grid season announced

Three Southeastern Conference opponents, a pair from the Southwest Conference, games with six independents, a "home" game in Jacksonville, Fla., and unusual back-to-back open dates make up the 1989 University of Southern Mississippi football schedule released by head coach Curley Hallman and athletic director Bill McLellan.

Eight of this season's opponents also were on the 1988 slate, Texas Christian will be the only first-time opponent on the 1989 schedule, and Texas A&M and Alabama both return to the schedule to replace three teams not returning from last year's schedule, Louisiana Tech, Virginia Tech and Stephen F. Austin.

Coming off a 10-2 season and an Independence Bowl victory under first-year head coach Curley Hallman, the Golden Eagles open the season Sept. 2 in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville against a Florida State team that went 10-1 and then beat Auburn in the Sugar Bowl, and end it Nov. 25 at home against East Carolina.

The USM-Florida State game originally was scheduled for Hattiesburg, but McLellan recently announced the shift as part of an agreement that guarantees USM $525,000.

It will be the most-distant-from-campus home game ever for the Golden Eagles as well as their first-ever game in Jacksonville.

Intrastate rival Mississippi State provides second week opposition in Jackson, and the Eagles continue SEC action the following week by going to Auburn.

A pair of Southwest Conference opponents, TCU and Texas A&M, take up the next two weekends before the Eagles play their first true home game of the season, hosting Tulane Oct. 7.

Other home games include Southwestern Louisiana Oct. 21 and the East Carolina game to end the season.

Homecoming will be celebrated in conjunction with the Southwestern Louisiana game, and Parents' Day will be held in conjunction with the Tulane game.

Other games include on Oct. 14 stop at Louisville, and a Nov.

18 date at Alabama.

The back-to-back open dates are Nov. 4 and 11 and should prove to be beneficial since they coincide with the fall recruiting period.

USM owns a 108-92-7 record against this season's 11 opponents, and went 6-2 against the eight teams returning from last year's schedule, losing only to FSU and Auburn.

"We're excited about playing this schedule," said Hallman. "It's the kind of schedule that can be instrumental in the continued growth of our program. Certainly this will have to rank as the toughest schedule in USM history, and I think with what we accomplished last season and what we want to do in the future insofar as gaining national-level exposure, this schedule can't do anything but help."

Season tickets for the three-game home schedule will cost $42 this season, tickets to the FSU and Mississippi State games are $16 and $18 respectively, and ticket prices to "away" games will be set by the host school.

Palmer is PRCC basketball signee

Pearl River Central High School's loss will be Pearl River Community College's gain.

Pearl River Central's Wendy Palmer has signed a basketball scholarship with PRCC's Lady Wildcats.

While at Pearl River Central, the 5-7 guard/forward scored more than 1,300 career points along the way toward earning a host of individual awards.

As a sophomore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Palmer was selected as the best offensive player and free throw shooter on the team as well as being named to the school's all-tournament team.

As a junior, she was picked for the all-district and all-conference teams. She was also the conference's most valuable player. In tournament action, she was named the MVP of Pearl River Central's invitational tournament and was named to the all-tournament teams at the Harrison Central (where she was also MVP) and Pearl River County tournaments.

She was once again named the team's best offensive player and free throw shooter, and was also chosen as the school's best female athlete and was picked as captain of the softball team.

As a senior she was selected for the second straight year for the Coast All-Star team and served once again as captain of the softball team. And in addition to being picked once again to the all-tournament team at the school's invitational tournament, she was named as Hard-ee's Player of the Week.

Four campus, two Jackson games highlight MSU football schedule

An 11-game football schedule for 1989 featuring four games at Scott Field and contests at Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium in Jackson with in-state rivals Southern Mississippi

Mississippi State University and the University of Mississippi has been announced by Mississippi State University Director of Athletics Larry Templeton.

1989 Mississippi State University Football Schedule

| Date | Opponent | Site | Time |
|----------|---------------------|------------------|-----------|
| Sept. 2 | Vanderbilt | Campus | 6:00 p.m. |
| Sept. 9 | Southern Miss. | Jackson | 1:00 p.m. |
| Sept. 23 | Georgia | Athens, Ga. | noon |
| Sept. 30 | Florida | Tampa, Fla. | 5:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 7 | Northeast Louisiana | Campus | 6:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 21 | Memphis State (HC) | Campus | 6:00 p.m. |
| Oct. 28 | Auburn | Auburn, Ala. | 1:30 p.m. |
| Nov. 4 | Alabama | Birmingham, Ala. | 1:30 p.m. |
| Nov. 11 | Tulane | Campus | 1:30 p.m. |
| Nov. 18 | LSU | Baton Rouge, La. | 7:00 p.m. |
| Nov. 25 | Mississippi | Jackson | 1:30 p.m. |

makes the first of four campus appearances Sept. 2 when the Bulldogs open the 1989 campaign against Southeastern Conference foe Vanderbilt at Scott Field. Coach Rocky Felker's fourth MSU football edition also entertains Northeast Louisiana Oct. 7, Memphis State Oct. 21 and Tulane Nov. 11 during the 1989 season.

The Bulldogs make two trips to Jackson's Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium in 1989, taking on Southern Mississippi Sept. 9 and Mississippi Nov. 25.

"The four games on campus and the two games in Jackson are attractive matchups that provide us with six good opportunities to compete in the state," said Templeton.

"Fortunately for us, the Florida game in Tampa (Sept. 30) provides a unique opportunity to earmark some additional funds for the football program to undertake our number one priority on athletic facility improvement at Mississippi State, the construction of meeting rooms in the Shira Fieldhouse.

The 1989 schedule also includes road matchups at Georgia, Florida (Tampa), Auburn, Alabama (Birmingham), and LSU.

"We appreciate the improvements and rental changes made possible for the use of Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium by the Mississippi Legislature," Templeton said.

"The new rental structure and the work of Alvis Hunt and his committee represent an attitude of cooperation and willingness to help intercollegiate athletics within the state."

Mississippi State will take on Memphis State Oct. 21 for Homecoming, with kickoff set for 6 p.m.

Bassin' with the pros

Choosing lures properly

What's one of the biggest mistakes bass fishermen make before they ever start fishing?

According to Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member Randy Fite, it's deciding which lures you're going to use without first checking the conditions.

"Having game plans and a general idea of what the fish should be doing is important," says Fite, "but it's important to let the fish and the water tell you how to fish."

"Far too many anglers try to catch bass the way they want to and never let the fish tell them how they can be caught."

The first thing to do, says the Texas-based angler, is to use a lure that works best at the depth you think the bass are using. You don't want to use a shallow-running crankbait or a topwater plug if the fish are 18 to 20 feet deep, nor do you want to use a deep-running crankbait if the bass are in two feet of water over mossbeds.

"Water temperature is also important," says the Johnson pro, "because it often determines the depth and activity level of the bass. This, in turn, determines the speed of your lure retrieve."

"Remember, the deeper you fish, the less choice of lures you have to work the water at maximum efficiency. Conversely, of course, the more shallow you fish, the wider your lure selection is."

Shallow water in spring can be clear or muddy, explains Fite. The muddier the water, the more important lure vibration becomes, which is why spinnerbaits often work well. In clear water, Fite prefers crankbaits of jigs because they appear more natural.

"The lure's action is always important," adds Fite, "but don't try to add action with your reel. The reel is simply to control lure movement. You impart action to a lure with your rod tip. Raise your rod, lower it, even shake it from side to side if you want that lure to do something special."

"Just remember, let the bass tell you how they want a lure presented, because they always do. Be as open-minded and as versatile as you can, and your catch rate will certainly increase."

Quite often, says Fite, the very first bass of the day can be the most important because it may tell you the pieces you need to fit the bass-catching puzzle together.

"Pay attention to the depth, the speed of your retrieve, even the force with which the bass hit," says Fite, "because they all combine to tell you how the fish are acting and how you should be fishing."

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By Lee Taylor

Summer is almost upon us and this means pasture grasses are growing. In surveying the county, I find Bahia and Bermuda grasses have broken dormancy and are coming out nicely. Producers can now start thinking about fertilizing and getting summer grasses off to a fast start.

Several beef producers are considering planting Pasta Rico or NK-37 this year. Pasta Rico is a cross between common bermuda and one of the hybrid bermudas. It can be seeded and producers should plant 10 pounds per acre along with 300-400 pounds of 13-13-13 fertilizer per acre. Grass emergence is fast and top growth looks similar to Alicia Bermuda.

The drawback to Pasta Rico is it will revert back to common in three to four years. At that time it must be reseeded to obtain a taller and thicker stand. Protein content of this grass would be very similar to Alicia or Tifton 44. It makes very good horse hay or hay for cattle.

SOYBEANS

Soybean producers should have already started booking seed beans for planting. Our local suppliers in Poplarville and Picayune should be able to help you. We have experiment station yields for several locations. This data can help you select your variety or varieties.

Weed control gets more complicated each year in soybeans. There are over 30 herbicides on the market. Before spending a great deal of money on a herbicide, a producer must know which weed he is fighting. Timely applications of a herbicide is a must. The label must be followed correctly to obtain the best results.

GARDENING

Most gardens I have seen are off to a great start. I have seen some real good looking gardens in the Bay-Waveland area and up in the county. So far we have had little disease or insect problems. However, it only takes a few days to have serious problems with a garden or a field crop, so let's be observant and timely.

As you know, all feeder pigs sold in the state of Mississippi after April 1, 1989, must have tested free of Pseudorabies.

Before selling at the April feeder pig sales in Laurel or Waynesboro, all pigs must have been tested for Pseudorabies.

When you take your pigs to Laurel or Waynesboro, be sure to take the form with you showing your swine are free of Pseudorabies. You will not be able to go on the grounds of the feeder pig sales without your

'AVERAGE' FARMERS

Just who are the 'real' Mississippi farmers? Mississippi ETV's weekly agricultural news program, 'Farmweek,' profiles these elusive individuals on the Monday, April 17 edition.

The 'Average' Mississippi farmer is: a small landowner attempting to keep the family farm going by taking a second job. He/she is working to make ends meet and often struggling to survive.

Airing at 7:30 p.m., this special profile segment will feature discussions with a rural socialist and an economist on the role of the 'average' Mississippi farmer and will also include a talk about the state's farming situation with two 'average' farmers.

'Farmweek' is a production of Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and is underwritten by Mississippi Chemical Corporation. The series provides up-to-the-hour market reports, price analyses, weather forecasts, consumer tips and the latest in state and national agricultural news.

New York trip to Sesame Street offered by Miss. ETV

Mississippi ETV and Big Bird invite Mississippi kids ages three to six to enter a contest to win a trip to "Sesame Street" to celebrate the show's 20th season on PBS.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for many preschoolers to have a chance to meet their favorite characters and learn how to truly get to "Sesame Street".

To qualify, each child needs to send his or her name, address, age and the name and daytime telephone number of the parents or guardian to Mississippi ETV, P.O. Box 1101, Jackson, MS 39215-1101.

The winning child will be selected by random drawing, and his or her parent or guardian will be invited to "Sesame Street" in New York City to join the cast and crew of the award-winning show at a special celebration Sept. 9.

"Sesame Street" has entertained and educated generations of pre-schoolers and has become an American institution in preparing young children for the transition to first grade. Kids continue to enjoy the antics of Big Bird, Cookie Monster, Bert and Ernie and revel in the live-action film and animation that make "Sesame Street" unique in children's television programming.

"Sesame Street" is seen weekdays on Mississippi ETV at 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

New kind of foster home needed, experienced parents to offer help

BY DENA BISNETTE

A new kind of foster home is needed in Hancock County, one where children can work out their emotional problems.

The home is called a therapeutic foster home, and parents are currently being sought. Volunteers will receive training both from parents who have provided regular foster care and from others who will work with the children, including therapists and social workers.

Celeste Proulx, an adoption

Foster parents participating in the new program must also be responsible for transportation to therapy sessions and medical appointments, attend court hearings upon the request of the child's social worker and participate in school conferences.

Proulx said quarterly meetings with the child's treatment team and annual training will also be required.

The planned amount of time for a child to live in one of these weren't called that. You still wanted to help them, but you couldn't," she said.

"You can't help a person if he doesn't want it. He has to want to be helped," replies Doris Glass, who has had to send a few children back for new placements because she was unable to provide some of the special treatment they needed.

She has also been a foster mother for almost five years now. She takes in teenage girls and talks of one who needed more than ordinary foster care, because she would not communicate and dogged another child's footsteps until the other girl became emotional about it.

Both foster mothers admit that caring for someone else's children, children they know will not be able to stay with them permanently, has its frustrating moments.

Guintard especially understands because she tried to adopt one of the little ones who stayed with her because it appeared his family would not be able to take him back. After a legal battle, some of his relatives did get custody.

However, both of them say they would never, ever trade in the experience of being a foster parent, something they hope to share in training sessions with the applicants for the therapeutic foster home licenses.

"It took me a year to decide to do it," said Glass, who currently has three foster daughters living with her. "My kids thought I had gone crazy."

Her own children are adults. Her foster daughters, whose names can not be released because foster children are classified as "protected by the state," include two 17 year olds and an 18 year old.

One, who has received an exception from the usual rules governing how long a foster child may remain in the same home because she is nearly of legal age, has been with her for about four years. Another has lived in Glass' home several months, with the third being a more recent arrival.

After about four years of being a foster parent, Guintard is currently taking a break. She has no babies in her home right now, but that could change overnight.

"These parents get children who have been abused and neglected or children in custody battles we get through Chancery Court. The court puts these children in custody of the welfare department and we do the investigation," Proulx said. Sometimes, the biggest problem the foster child has is not being able to go home because for some reason the parents aren't able to provide adequate care.

This confuses the little ones, Guintard said. Arranged visits with parents through the welfare department are "an upset-the therapeutic home program may call the welfare department because more homes of both types are needed.

"We want as many as we can get," she said.

She explained that the department is trying to be more careful now to place children appropriately and that the state is now pushing adoption over long-term foster care.

The welfare department can be reached at 467-4565. It is located on Necaise Avenue across from the St. Stanislaus football field.

HEARTS AND HANDS HELPING OTHERS

Ouida Guintard

and foster care worker with the Hancock County Welfare Department, said she hopes that at least one of the new foster homes will be licensed early this summer.

The people who will be considered as therapeutic foster parents must be at least 25 years old, have a minimum of a high school education or a GED, and must not have more than three children younger than 19 after the addition of the foster child or children to the family.

Homes must be close to therapeutic resources, such as available counselors, and will usually be assigned only one child unless an exception is made for siblings.

Two parent homes are preferred, but single applicants will be considered.

However, unless the job involved coincides with the time the child will be in school, one of the parents must not work outside the home; this requirement insures that someone is available to the child at all times.

Because the children who will be placed in this type of home are children with behavior or emotional difficulties and have a history of multiple foster home placements, therapeutic foster parents will help implement behavior management programs prescribed by the child's therapist and treatment team, keep accurate records on the child's behavior and intervention methods, and work with biological parents when the treatment team deems it appropriate.

homes is one year, unless the treatment team decides otherwise.

Foster care is, after all, a temporary measure, the adoption and foster care worker stated.

"We prefer to keep a child with its parents, but that isn't always possible. Foster care is one of the options we consider then, because that way the child may be able to go back to the parents later," Proulx said.

The children in the new program will include some who have not worked out in other foster homes.

"We need a place for these kids to work out their anger, their problems," she said, explaining that one of the reasons for "blown placements" in the past has been that the children actually needed special handling.

While in a regular foster home like the 16 currently licensed in Hancock County, they receive love and care, but therapy is not included.

Ouida Guintard, who with her husband has been a foster parent for about 14 children not counting the ones she temporarily sheltered overnight or for a few days, said she has met some children who might have needed a therapeutic foster home.

She cares for babies, although she has had older children in the past, and this particular one screamed and beat his feet against his crib every night until he finally went to sleep from exhaustion.

"We had them, but they

Children's Home Society seeks adoptive families

The Mississippi Children's Home Society and Family Service Association is diligently searching for families, anywhere in the state of Mississippi who want to adopt infants and older children.

There are literally hundreds of children across the United States in need of permanent homes. The Mississippi Children's Home Society believes that all children grow better when they are part of a permanent family.

Applications for infants are accepted only when families are needed, and the length of the waiting period is not fully predictable. Couples seeking to adopt black infants may, however, expect a shorter wait than those seeking white infants, since there are more black infants in need of families. There are far more requests for white infants than there are babies available.

Qualifications for adoptive applicants are:

* Between 25 and 40 years of age.

* Good physical and emotional health.

* Stable marriage of three or more years.

* Income sufficient to support a child and provide insurance coverage.

* Safe home with adequate space for a child.

Caring families are needed to give loving homes to special children. Older black children are predominant among these special children, and several are in large sibling groups.

Additionally, there are school-age white children who have been without a permanent home for a long time. They need extra-special parents who can "go slowly" in helping them fit into the family.

You do not have to be young, married, wealthy, or have a fine home. You do need a lot of love, patience and compassion to add a special child to your way of life.

All of the children want love and a family to call their own!

B-W Headstart teachers recognized for outstanding work with pre-schoolers

Five teachers from the Bay-Waveland Headstart Center have been awarded Child Development Associate credentials in recognition of outstanding work with young children. The credentials were awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession through its affiliation with the National Association for the Education of Young Children. They include Glendell Hall, center director; teachers Judy Tate, Deborah Hill and Oreilia Marshall and Catherine Thomas, assistant. CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care. Although the first credential was awarded just 12 years ago, over 33 states already include CDA in child care licensing regulations. Others are considering similar action.

Parents who use child care are especially concerned today about their children's welfare. Every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children and is evaluated by a team which includes early childhood experts and a parent. The candidate must demonstrate ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment. CDA is having a positive effect on the quality of center-based child care. Its biggest impact may yet occur with its latest availability for family day care, the most common form of care for young children.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA should write: The Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition, 1718 Connecticut Avenue N.W., Suite 500, Washington, DC, 20009, or phone 202-265-9090 or 800-424-4310.

Kergosiens congregate at reunion

Special to the Echo
Continuing a family custom which began soon after the turn of this century, members of the Kergosien family gathered during the weekend of April 1 at the old family home here to celebrate the reunion of family members after a lapse of several years.

Each member of the Kergosien clan, descendants of Adolphe Kergosien of Brittany, France and Elodie Mauffray, has deep roots in Bay St. Louis, each having been born and reared here or, at least, having spent much time here.

Dr. A. A. Kergosien, son of Adolphe and Elodie Kergosien, moved his family to Bay St. Louis in 1911 after a successful medical practice in the Kiln-Fenton area and became active in church, civic and political affairs.

His business interests included ownership of the Beach Drug Store which was finally destroyed in 1969 by Hurricane Camille.

Dr. Kergosien and his wife Lavinia Cuevas were the parents of Emmett, Horace, Clara, Laurent, Ogden, Hazel (Blaize) and Charles, all deceased, and Murhl Kergosien Morlan of this city.

At present the Kergosien clan in America consists of 97 members, all descendants of Adolphe and the only people in this country who are known to have the Kergosien name.

The reunion focused primarily on the third generation, the great-grandchildren of Adolphe and Elodie, although members of the fourth and fifth generations were included in some of the weekend's activities.

Deceased family members include Phil Kergosien and Karen Kergosien Treutel.

Activities included a reunion banquet on Friday evening at Chappy's Restaurant, followed on Saturday by a picnic in Kiln at the home of Kinta Kergosien Maloney in close proximity to the original homestead of Adolphe Kergosien.

On Sunday, the reunion of the third generation was held at the old family home on Carroll Avenue originally owned by Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Kergosien and presently owned by Gaines and Marian Kergosien.

KERGOSIEN REUNION—Front row, from left, are Kinta Maloney, Paul Maloney and Barbara Kergosien; second row, Bobby Russ, Suzi Russ, Becky Kergosien, Gary Blaize, Dianne Kergosien, Beverly Kergosien and Hardy Kergosien; third row, Dean Bourg, Lynette Bourg, Everett Kergosien, Angelle Kergosien, Ames Kergosien, Brenda McDonald and Hartwell Lott. Back row, from left, are David and Pennie Treutel, Andree' and John Herrington, Peggy Rowley, Helene Vernon, Mrs. Horace Kergosien, Nona Morlan, Murhl Morlan, Jim Morlan, Ann Quinlan, Mrs. Laurent Kergosien, Mrs. Ulysses Cuevas, Linda Kergosien, Hunter Kergosien, Marian Kergosien and Gaines Kergosien. Not present for the picture were Corliss Pursley, Harold and Carol Kergosien, Janet Kyle and Betty Blaize.

Girl Scouts' Camp Iti Kana host to 'Backyard America'

The Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council is sponsoring its third annual "Backyard America" event on Saturday, April 29 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Camp Iti Kana near Wiggins. "Backyard America" will feature activities and entertainment reminiscent of an old-fashioned country fair. A bubble-blowing contest, a fishing rodeo, stick horse races, a milking contest, a spelling bee and sack races are just some of the activities planned for this event which is open to the general public. Most activities will be free.

Others will have a small fee (most for 25 cents) bingo, face painting, a silhouette portrait booth and helium balloons.

For more information, contact the Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council office at 896-4047 in Gulfport.

If They Don't Fit - They're No Bargain!

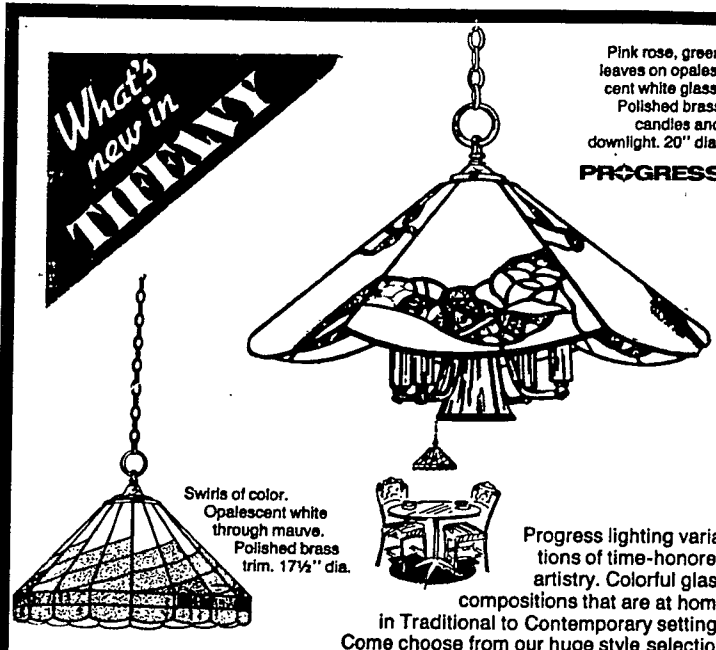

Like clothes, property and casualty insurance coverage which does not fit is no bargain - no matter what the cost. A policy that doesn't suit your specific needs, whether big or small, is not a smart buy.

To insure proper fit, tailor-made to your individual needs, we invite you to check with our agency. We have many "sizes," in choice selections, available from more than one company in our "insurance department store." Give us the opportunity to provide you with properly measured coverage. We assure you we have the homeowners, auto liability and other policies which will "fit you to a T."

ing should contact Holly Hayden Hurston as soon as possible

MUW plans alumni activities April 14-15

Mississippi University for Women will be "putting on the ritz" for its new president, Dr.
Clyda S. Rent, during Homecoming April 14-15 as alumni from throughout the state and nation gather on campus for a weekend of special entertainment, reunions, open houses,
exhibits and seminars.

Dr. Rent, who will begin her duties at MUW in early April, will be the guest of honor during a cabaret-style evening featuring some of MUW's most talented alums. The event, which will be held April 14 in the Columbus Civic Center, will focus around the theme, "Putting on the Ritz for Rent."

Earlier in the day Friday, the MUW nursing faculty will present a program titled "The Seasons in a Woman's Life." A reception is also planned for all past editors of the campus newspaper, "The Spectator," and the yearbook, the "Meh Lady."

An autograph party, hosted by the 'Division of Humanities, is planned for Mary Beth Craft,
author of a book of cartoons
about a woman priest. An open house will also be held at the Mary Wilson House, home of the director of the Mississippi
School for Math and Science.

Other activities Friday will include the annual Alumnae Board meeting and luncheon, a luncheon for the Golden Girls (an organization made up of members of classes between 1900 and 1938), a Young Alums' business meeting and walking tours of campus.

Highlighting Saturday's activities will be the presentation of the 1989 Alumnae Achievement Awards during the annual convocation in Whitfield Auditorium.

Class reunions, for classes ending in 9's and 4's, social club
reunions, breakfast meetings, an open house at the president's home, a Young Alums' party, a dinner for the class of 1939, a ballet and other special activities are also on Saturday's Homecoming agenda.

The Helen Mullen Retrospective Exhibit will be featured in the Fine Arts Gallery throughout the weekend. A reception is planned Saturday from 1:30-5 p.m. A quilt display will be featured in Whitfield Hall Friday and Saturday. MUW's Archives and Museum will also be open for Homecoming.

New officers of the MUW Alumnae Association will be elected during the Saturday-morning convocation.

If you need an air conditioner and
a furnace, this is
two for one sale.

Is your old furnace on its last legs? You're fortunate. Because you can replace both dinosaurs with just one energy-efficient electric heat pump. And that can save you a lot of money. But money isn't all you'll save. Because an electric heat pump cools and heats so evenly, you'll enjoy one comfortable, even temperature throughout your home. Summer and winter. And that'll save you lots of aggravation. You'll also save on towels. Because an electric heat pump dries out the humidity while it cools in summer. And then in winter, it heats without drying the air the way a furnace does. So, you, your furniture and plants won't dry out.

Finally, you can save up to $150 annually on energy bills in a 2000 sq. ft. home: actual savings may be lower, or higher, depending on such factors as local energy costs and lifestyle usage.

Call your Total Comfort Pledge™ heating and cooling contractor for more information. And take advantage of the only two-for-one sale that gives you more than one way to save.

The Electric Heat Pump
Total comfort in one amazing box.

Barbara Stewart of Commercial Realty Associates in Gulfport, who represents South Health Enterprises, Inc., is on the board for a resolution on the matter Friday morning.

Southern Health Enterprises bought the former Harbor General Hospital building in the county last year and renovated it into a personal home for elderly people who are basically ambulatory and need of skilled nursing, but need assistance with such matters as administering medication.

First Baptist church is abundant.

First Missionary Baptist Church, however, has a legitimate claim to the number one designation. It was the Baptist church—in Bay St. Louis.

Founded in 1877, First Missionary will celebrate its 100th anniversary with a special service at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, May 23.

The anniversary theme is "Christ the Head, and the Church His Body." Guest speaker will be the Reverend A. Dees of East Jerusalem Baptist Church in Picayune.
